To Our Friends and Associates

Leadership is critical for any high-performance organization. However, it becomes even more essential during downturns in the national economy. Fortunately, our leadership was extremely focused during 2002. At Western & Southern Financial Group®, there was reason for celebration at the close of 2002. We ended the year with our strength intact, and growth occurred throughout each of our core businesses.

In fact, we had the best operating year in our history. Operating income, which represents the collective earnings of our businesses in the Enterprise, is the true test of our organization's vitality. I am pleased to report that Western & Southern's 2002 operating income was $181 million – up 66 percent from 2001 – as our main life insurance and annuity businesses turned in strong results.

Total assets owned and under management, which includes third-party assets, were $28.7 billion – another record. Our capital-to-asset ratio remained an incredibly strong 17.1 percent. We have retained industry-leading financial strength at a time when many companies are faltering. Total assets owned reached another record high of $23.7 billion, an increase of nearly $2 billion over 2001 levels.

The good news is that we made money during a year in which many in our industry did not. However, the difficult national economy proved challenging for our investment portfolios, and we experienced some declines in the overall values. These declines contributed to a reduction in our net income ($60 million for the year 2002 versus net income of $189 million in 2001) and a 4.4 percent decline in our net worth to $4.1 billion at year-end 2002. Nevertheless, we are very well capitalized and are perhaps the best-capitalized life insurer in the United States.

The Legacy lives on...

On February 23, we celebrated our 115th anniversary. Over all these years, we have kept our promise to those who purchased our financial products – to be here when they needed us.

Given the long-term commitments we make to our clients, we take the long-term view in our decision-making. We invest for the long term and make decisions for our organization based on its best future interests, not just to maximize next quarter's earnings.

This decision-making philosophy is further proof of why Western & Southern is a leader in our industry. Consider the following facts:

- Western & Southern was named the No. 1 private company* in Ohio by Ohio Business magazine.
- We continued our extraordinary achievement as one of only nine life insurance groups in the world to earn Standard & Poor's AAA (highest) rating for extremely strong financial security.
- Fixed annuity sales reached record levels, as IFS Financial Services Inc., our wholly owned subsidiary that sells Western & Southern products, ranked 10th in the nation for fixed annuity sales through the bank channel. Enterprise-wide sales of annuities in 2002 were $2.5 billion, compared to $1.9 billion in 2001.

Adding to our numerous successes in 2002 was the opportunity to introduce Western & Southern to the global community. Our sponsorship of the "Western & Southern Financial Group Masters" tennis tournament is raising awareness of our organization as a financial services powerhouse. The Western & Southern Financial Group Masters is one of the 13 most prestigious tennis tournaments in the world. It was broadcast internationally for 36 hours in 167 countries last August.

This period of time is our time. We are within reach of achieving our dream of attaining world-class status as a financial services organization. As long as we continue to make the right business decisions and work together as a team, there is no doubt we will achieve that dream.

Sincerely,

John F. Barrett
Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer

2002 Financial Highlights

Western & Southern Financial Group continued to post solid gains in 2002, despite a prolonged national economic downturn that took a heavy toll on many in the financial services industry.

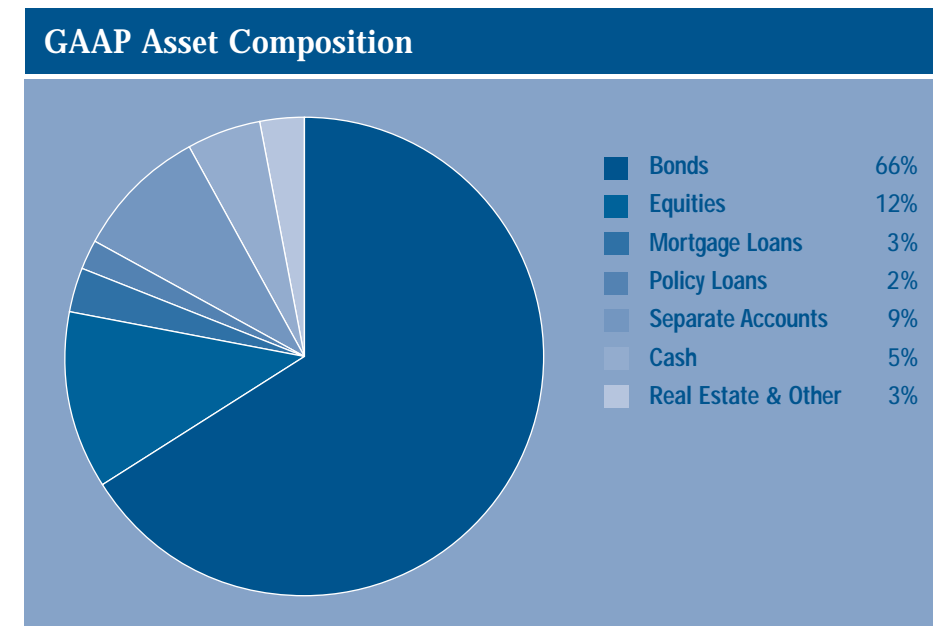

For the year ended Dec. 31, 2002, assets owned and under management were approximately $28.7 billion. This reflects a compounded annual growth rate of 16 percent since 1997. Premiums at the close of 2002 topped $3 billion, with a 14 percent growth rate.

These financial achievements were accomplished by delivering profitable new products; utilizing diversified distribution systems; and leveraging technological innovations.

William J. Williams

Leadership At Its Best

In 1955, Mr. Williams pursued business interests apart from insurance, including the founding of North American Management and Development Company, one of the first developers of shopping centers in the United States. During that time, Mr. Williams continued to be an active member of Western & Southern's Board of Directors, playing a key role in guiding the company. His astute efforts paid off. Western & Southern remains one of the strongest and most highly rated life insurers in the nation.

Mr. Williams returned to Western & Southern in 1984, first as President and Chief Operating Officer and later as Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of the Board. During his tenure, Western & Southern Financial Group experienced significant growth while increasing its financial strength.

Mr. Williams' stature in the financial services industry is rivaled only by his reputation as a philanthropist. Mr. Williams' commitment to community service and compassion for others led the organization to create what is now known as Western & Southern Foundation. The Foundation has become involved in myriad activities, ranging from building low-income and senior-citizen housing to supporting the Multiple Sclerosis Society's major local fund-raiser, the MS Walk.

Through the years, Mr. Williams has touched millions of lives. His legacy and vision will continue to guide our leaders in making Western & Southern Financial Group one of the most-trusted, service-oriented and monetarily robust financial services organizations in the world.

William J. Williams – visionary leader of Western & Southern Financial Group for nearly 20 years – stepped down as Chairman of the Board of Directors in 2002. Mr. Williams remains on the Board and chairs its executive committee. Though Mr. Williams may not be as actively involved in the company he joined in 1934, his legacy endures.

Mr. Williams grew up in the environs of The Western & Southern Life Insurance Company, which was founded by his uncle, William J. Williams, in 1888. Through the years, the younger Williams learned all aspects of the thriving Cincinnati business. He worked at Western & Southern during summer vacations as a boy and upon graduation from Georgetown University became a full-time insurance salesman. After serving in the United States Army during World War II, Mr. Williams returned to Cincinnati, becoming head of sales operations in 1949.
